The Ethics of Grace

ENGAGING GERALD MCKENNY

ENQUIRIES IN THEOLOGICAL ETHICS

The Ethics of Grace

Engaging Gerald McKenny

Edited by Michael Mawson & Paul Martens

"This is a thrilling book to read. Working at the creative boundary between ethics and grace, its comprehensive coherence, lively discussion, and probing analysis offers more than standard edited volumes. Its critical and respectful dialogue with McKenny is a fitting tribute to a scholar whose influence is broad and deep." - Celia Deane-Drummond, University of Oxford, UK

"Gerald McKenny has, without doubt, been amongst the finest Protestant ethicists of recent times in the English-speaking world. This is an outstanding collection of engagements with his work, which beautifully mirror the scholarly breadth, analytical rigour, and above all the deep intellectual generosity that have marked his own writing." - Robert Song, Durham University, UK

This volume draws together leading theologians and Christian ethicists from across the globe to critically engage with and reflect upon Gerald McKenny, widely acknowledged as one of the most original and important Christian ethicists working today. The essays highlight the significance of McKenny's interventions with a range of important debates in contemporary theological ethics, ranging from analyses of the Protestant conception of grace to bioethics and medicine.

The Ethics of Grace is the first volume to facilitate critical engagements with a number of key themes in McKenny's work, including his interpretation of Karl Barth, engagements with biotechnology and reflections on and the relationship between nature and grace. The contributors to this volume are: Gilbert Meilaender, Angela Carpenter, Jeffrey Morgan, Eric Gregory, Robin W. Lovin, Stanley Hauerwas, Travis Kroeker, Stephen J. Pope, Michael Mawson, Jennifer Herdt, Paul Scherz, and Paul Martens.

Michael Mawson is the Maclaurin Goodfellow Associate Professor of Theology at the University of Auckland, NZ.

Paul Martens is Associate Professor of Christian Ethics at Baylor University, USA.
